

EMPOWER HER • LEGAL

Copyright & Content Use Policy

Effective Date: October 6, 2026

Last Updated: October 6, 2026

Copyright & Ownership

Unless otherwise stated, original content published or made available by Empower Her through its website, events, programs, communications, or other ministry platforms—including, but not limited to, written materials, devotionals, declarations, Bible study materials, ministry resources, downloadable resources, graphics, original designs, photographs owned by Empower Her, videos, audio content, event materials, conference materials, worksheets, guides, merchandise designs, logos, branding elements, website copy, and other original materials—is owned by or licensed to Empower Her and is protected by applicable United States copyright and intellectual property laws.

© 2026 Empower Her. All Rights Reserved.

Third-party materials, including photographs, fonts, software, trademarks, Bible translations, plugins, music, videos, graphics, and other licensed or externally owned materials, remain the property of their respective owners and are subject to their applicable licenses, permissions, attribution requirements, and terms.

Personal Use

Unless otherwise stated, Empower Her may make certain resources available for personal, noncommercial use.

You may download or print resources specifically made available for personal use for your own individual use.

Permission for personal use does not transfer ownership of the material or grant permission to claim, reproduce, distribute, sell, license, or commercially exploit the material except as expressly permitted by Empower Her.

Prohibited Uses

Without prior written permission from Empower Her, you may not:

- reproduce or republish Empower Her content as your own;
- remove or obscure Empower Her copyright notices, branding, watermarks, attribution, or other ownership notices;
- sell, license, sublicense, or commercially exploit Empower Her materials;
- upload Empower Her materials to another website, resource library, marketplace, membership program, course, digital store, or similar platform for redistribution;
- modify Empower Her materials and represent the modified version as your own original work;
- use Empower Her resources or designs to create substantially similar products for sale or commercial distribution;
- reproduce Empower Her merchandise designs for use on merchandise or other products;
- distribute downloadable Empower Her materials in bulk without permission;
- use Empower Her conference, event, teaching, or ministry materials to create or operate another program, conference, course, product, or commercial offering without authorization; or
- use Empower Her intellectual property in a manner that falsely suggests sponsorship, partnership, endorsement, affiliation, or authorization by Empower Her.

Sharing Empower Her Content

We encourage you to share links to publicly available Empower Her website pages and official social-media content.

If you quote a limited portion of Empower Her's original written content for noncommercial purposes, please provide appropriate attribution to Empower Her and, when reasonably possible, direct others to the original source.

Downloading an Empower Her resource does not give you permission to redistribute the underlying file unless the resource expressly states that redistribution is permitted.

Church, Ministry, Group, and Organizational Use

Churches, ministries, businesses, organizations, small groups, conferences, schools, and other groups wishing to reproduce, distribute, teach from, modify, display, publish, or incorporate Empower Her materials into their own programs, events, resources, or activities should obtain prior written permission from Empower Her unless the applicable resource expressly grants such permission.

Permission granted for one resource, event, program, or use does not automatically grant permission to use other Empower Her materials or to use the approved material for another purpose.

Conference and Event Materials

Materials created by Empower Her for conferences, events, workshops, teachings, or ministry programs may be protected by copyright and other intellectual property rights.

Attendance at an Empower Her event or purchase of an event registration does not transfer ownership of Empower Her's conference or event materials or grant permission to reproduce, sell, distribute, publish, record, or commercially use those materials unless Empower Her expressly authorizes such use.

Merchandise Designs

Empower Her merchandise may contain original artwork, graphics, phrases, logos, branding, or other protected content.

Purchasing Empower Her merchandise does not transfer any intellectual property rights in the artwork, design, logo, branding, or other content appearing on the merchandise.

Unless expressly authorized in writing, Empower Her merchandise designs may not be copied, reproduced, modified, manufactured, printed on other products, sold, or commercially distributed.

Trademarks and Branding

The name Empower Her, Empower Her logos, branding, slogans, graphics, and other source-identifying materials may be protected by trademark or other intellectual property rights.

Nothing on the Site, in an Empower Her resource, or through participation in an Empower Her event grants a license or right to use Empower Her's name, logos, branding, or other source-identifying materials without prior written authorization.

Third-Party Content

Certain content appearing on or through Empower Her's website, events, communications, or resources may belong to third parties.

Empower Her does not claim ownership of third-party intellectual property merely because it is referenced, displayed, linked, licensed, or otherwise used in connection with Empower Her's activities.

Third-party content remains subject to the rights, licenses, permissions, and restrictions established by its respective owner.

Reporting Copyright Concerns

If you believe material appearing on the Empower Her website infringes your copyright or other intellectual property rights, please contact us with sufficient information for us to identify and review the material.

Permission Requests

If you wish to reproduce, distribute, teach from, publish, modify, commercially use, or otherwise use Empower Her content beyond the permissions expressly provided in this policy, please contact Empower Her to request written permission.

Permission requests should identify the material you wish to use and explain how you intend to use it.

Contact

For copyright concerns or permission requests, contact:

Empower Her

Colorado Springs, Colorado

Email: info@empower-herministry.org